Transitional Management Committee (TMC) UPDATE # 11

Categories of UG Staff and all Students To Continue to Work in Safe Mode (online) until at least the end of the extended Semester 1, July 18, 2020

(Georgetown/Guyana/The University of Guyana/ June 1, 2020) The Transitional Management Committee (TMC) of The University of Guyana, further advises students, faculty and staff that there will be an extension of the safe mode until July 18, 2020, in response to COVID -19.

While essential staff and specified others may return with special permission under strict protocols a full-fledged return to face to face mode of classes is not envisaged at this time.

However, staff and students will continue to work online as far as possible during this period.

While the situation is still being observed, staff and students are encouraged to frequently check the University's official communication channels, SRMS, HRMIS and the University's website for updates.

We continue to encourage everyone to stay safe and to support the safety of others by following the guidelines of staying home, covering ones nose, mouth and eyes and maintaining 6 feet physical distance from others if they must go out. One must also maintain good nutrition and hygiene by washing hands, feet and parts of the body including garments regularly.

Please recall also that emergency cell numbers for all essential departments may be found on the University's website at www.uog.edu.gy.

We continue to wish everyone good health and wellness in every form until we return to the new norm.
